Wheat sowing is the order of the day in our community.

Mr. Dalton Kemp of Illinois, arrived at the bedside of his sister, Mrs. Fines Phin last Sunday.

On October 10 1910, the silent angel of Death visited the home of our loved one Mrs. Etter Phin, unseen and unheard by all, save she, to whom the message was sent when the angel said, the master is come and calleth for thee, she arose up hastily and went out but left this comforting message for us, "I know in whom I have believed and am persuaded that he is able to keep that which I have committed unto him against that day it is written, eyes hath not seen nor ears heard, neither have entered into the heart of man the things which God hath prepared for them that love him. We miss more than words can express the loving presence of our dear one, We bow in humble submission to our loving father, "Thy will be done" and with deepest sympathy we would turn to the bereaved family, dear sorrowing ones look up she has gone to abide in that beautiful mansion prepared for her not made with hands, and God himself shall be with her and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow nor crying for God shall wipe all tears away. Then we shall be able to say, there is no death, an angel form walks over the earth with silent tread, he bears our loved ones away and then we call them dead.

Gridley, Ill.

Editor News:

As a few lines from a Adair county woman might be of interest to some of the readers, will write a little.

I came with my husband to Chenoa, Ill., about a year ago, we lived in Chenoa, until about three weeks ago. It is a nice little town on the C. & A. R. R., 104 miles south of Chicago. It has a population of 1600 and two banks, four dry goods stores, three hardware stores, three restaurants, and five saloons and that doesn't add anything good to the town. It had been dry for two years until last Spring they brought back the saloons.

We now live on a farm about 6 miles from Gridley. This is a nice country for farming and it is a good place for everybody that wants plenty of work, but no place for a loafer. I enjoy reading the News especially the letters from Russell Springs, Fonthill, Montpelier and Irvin's Store.

Enclose find a check for $1.00 for which continue the paper. As this is my first letter will ring off.

Longstreet.

We have been out for some time but if you will allow us a little space in your clean columns we will give you the news of our place.

We are having some fine weather at this writing.

The health of this vicinity is fairly good.

Mr. S. B. Wade and wife who have been very feeble for the last few months is some better at this time.

The corn yield per acre in this neighborhood is much better than that of last year.

Most all our farmers are done sowing wheat.

Rev. J. S. Wade of this place has grown the largest tomato vine we ever heard of in these parts. In circumference 48 feet, length 166. The amount of fruit gathered there from cannot be estimated as no strict account has been kept. Hurrah for Longstreet soil.

W. N. Tarter of this place has a piece of corn which will yield him something near seven barrels per acre.

Mr. Frank Bernard and family of Hurable, have moved into our neighborhood. We welcome Mr. Bernard and family with us.

Mr. W. W. Owens and family has been visiting relatives for the last few days.

Prof. J. C. Bradley and family was with us one day last week.

Business is on a boom in this vicinity, all kinds of stock in high trade is lively. There is a constant chuck of loaded wagons carrying off staves and lumber to market. This makes us think of the by gone days when staves were of more value than money.

Library in Every County Seat.

Frankfort, Ky.—With their adopted slogan, "A Good Library in Every County Seat in Kentucky," and the determination to carry out such a plan, the State Library Commission after a meeting here, will soon start on a State-wide campaign to perfect important measures looking toward the establishment of libraries in easy access to every high school in Kentucky and to aid existing libraries to the extent of their power. All of the members, with the new secretary, Miss Fanne C. Rawson, and the acting secretary, Miss Julia Robinson, were present.

Communications will be sent to every library in the State to secure information about their condition, in order that a close relation may be formed between the different libraries and the commission. Any assistance the commission can give to these institutions will be readily afforded, and every movement for the establishment of new libraries will be supported by the commission.

Get this fact in your mind, and ponder over it: If you buy one brood sow and have only ordinary luck, and use good judgment, you can raise over 1,200 head in three years from that one sow and its offspring. Going some isn't it.

When fattening for market, do it quickly; push all the feed down the hogs that they'll stand for. It's the short-time finishing that makes money. When the hogs fail to gain at least a pound a day, it's time to say good-bye to them.

A London newspaper announces that Swift's idea of wit was all wrong. Next thing London will probably inform us that Shakespeare didn't know anything about writing plays.

"Cops" Not Grafters.

In proof that police in Cincinnati, O., are honest men, Chief Milikin exhibited a package of cigars, which he declared Inspector James Casey gave him three years ago. Casey, the chief said, told him personally that the cigars had been left at his house by a saloonkeeper, and that for that reason he had refused to accept them. Despite this show of honesty the Grand jury has found an indictment against Casey on charge of grafting and the whole police force of Cincinnati may be probed.

James Mulligan, a saloonkeeper, is author of the charges against Casey. He declared that five years ago he gave Inspector Casey $20 with the understanding that his saloon would be allowed to remain open after midnight. According to Mulligan the money was given through a friend, and the payments were continuous but the "friend" has disappeared and Mulligan is with out evidence to show that Casey actually received the cash.

Inspector Casey denies the charges and declares they are the outgrowth of recent raids.

Great Presence of Mind.

A negro preacher once visited a Catholic church and seeing the altar boys march up the aisle, one of them swinging the incense pot, while the others chanted in low voices, thought that this would be a pretty good idea to introduce in his church. On his return to the South he trained fifteen or twenty little negro boys to imitate the white boys.

One Sunday morning the congregation was surprised to see a row of little fellows marching up the aisle, chanting away; of course they noticed nothing wrong, but the preacher noticed that the little fellow who was supposed to carry the incense pot did not have it; so he leaned over the pulpit and chanted in the same tune: "What have you done with the incense pot?" and the little negro chanted back: "I left it behind, it was too damned hot."

We are likely to think that kinship to the heavenly father must be established by likeness to ourselves.
